A Fully Interactive Alarm System

Smart phones have brought with them the opportunities to do so many new things. It seems there is a new app to try everyday. Obviously, some of these new opportunities are frivolous, but more and more we're seeing some truly life altering applications.

We already know that you and your family's security is important to you, and now, the ability to see and hear what's going on at your home when you're away is so easy. The new systems are fully interactive and very user friendly. And it's not just for your alarm system! Now you can control your lights, thermostat, door locks, cameras and more. We believe home automation is finally here.

With the Police and Sheriff understandably cracking down on false alarms you now have a way to avoid the potential fees they charge. Now, when you're away from home and your alarm goes off, you can easily verify whether it is real, or just the cat.

Our new systems are fully interactive and fully programmable. You set the schedule that you want. For example: you determine what camera you would like to see when someone walks through the front door. You can put a wireless contact on a liquor cabinet door and your smart phone will discretely tell you if someone has opened it. Unlock your front door for the neighbor, watch them feed the cat and lock it back up when they leave -all from your smart phone while you're away. You can turn individual lights on or off, set the thermostat and more.

We have all of this available now. All through the family owned and operated security company you've been using for years -little old us! And, as usual, we're happy to visit and answer any questions you may have. Which reminds me; it's basically an a la carte menu of items. You choose and pay for only the items you want.

Just give us a call to have one of us stop by and provide free information and costs.
